DUTIES OF THE ROYAL AIR FORCE. ITS IMPERIAL ROLE.

THE POWERS AND LIMITATIONS OF AERIAL FIGHTERS.

The part played by the Royal Air Force during the present unrest on the North-West Frontier of India is of far greater importance than the reports that have appeared in the Press may seem to imply (writes Lieut. Colonel H. de Waverille in the Sunday Times). By nipping in the bud a grave spasm of lawlessness and unrest among several of the mountain tribes living beyond the administered districts, this use of the air arm has saved India from a series of severe raids by the brigand tribesmen. This fact, again, has spared the Government of India from becoming involved in a frontier campaign, if not two or three such ventures, of the first magnitude. Such an enterprise could only have ended in the loss of many hundreds of lives and in the expenditure of many millions.

Police Work on Frontiers.
These facts cannot fail to intensify the claim that is being steadily pressed by the supporters of the Royal Air Force for its extended employment on this nature of armed police work along the frontiers and in the wider territories of the Empire. The claim is not new; neither is it based on these recent developments on the Frontier.

In the House of Lords on April 9, Lord Trenchard, late Chief of the Air Staff, argued that the success of the Royal Air Force, in policing and pacifying semi-civilised regions, justified its claim to a wider scope for the performance of like duties in other parts of the Empire. He urged that such a course must prove most effective in practice as well as most economical in men and money. Thereupon he was opposed by Admiral Caven, late Chief of the Imperial General Staff and by Viscount Plumer. Lord Lloyd supported the latter speakers, intimating that we had hitherto best succeeded in pacifying lawless countries by a system of peaceful penetration and by a fearless dispensation of justice rather than by methods savouring more of intimidation or indiscriminate use of force.

Case for the Air Force.
That, however, was not the end of the matter. Earl Beatty and Lord Trenchard repeated their opinions, yet more emphatically, in the columns of a newspaper. Then Sir H. Dobbs, late High Commissioner for Iraq, warmly endorsed Lord Trenchard's opinions. On the other hand, a former Acting Civil Commissioner in Iraq, Sir A. T. Wilson, disagreed strongly with Sir H. Dobbs as to the desirability of such pacification from the air. The whole correspondence showed how there exists a remarkable lack of unanimity even among the highest authorities on this important matter of principle. The recent achievements of the Royal Air Force may now seem capable of clouding the serious issue at stake. It is as well to review the situation.

The case for the Air Force is a strong one. Since the third Afghan War, with its corollary, the Waziristan campaign of 1919-20, the forces have played a growingly important part in the pacification of the more lawless portions of the Empire. In the Yemen; in the Sudan, in Somaliland, a few aeroplanes have succeeded in obtaining results otherwise unattainable except at the cost of considerable military effort costing much money. These achievements are equalled by those since realised near Aden and in the North-West Frontier of India. Then there are the noteworthy triumphs of the Air Force in winding up the protracted operations necessary to subdue the Kurdish mountaineers on the north-eastern boundaries of Iraq. This is an imposing record, which leaves out of all account of the recent events on the Frontier.

Air Force Limitations.
Against this catalogue supporters of the Army urge that the Air Force cannot operate without the assistance of ground forces; still less can they consolidate their hold on any country when pacified. Even now in Iraq over 18,000 armed men stand behind the forty-eight aeroplanes and four flying-boats of the R.A.F. It is true that the Iraq Army of nearly 60,000 is new and utterly untried; but the same cannot be said of the 3,000 Iraq levies under British officers; neither is the Iraq gendarmerie, exceeding 7,000 men, of whom 3,000 are mounted and also highly spoken of a negligible factor in the situation. In addition there are twelve Imperial armoured cars with sixteen tenders, not to mention thirty Iraq armed cars ready to support the aircraft. Lastly, there is the Royal Navy available at the ports. It cannot be said that the Royal Air Force is acting single-handed in Iraq. In India the whole of the Army is ready to support the Air Force.

Again, it may be urged that, while the scanty population and desert of Iraq favour the use of aircraft, the same might not hold good in tropical jungle, or forest regions where landing-grounds may be so rare as to hinder air forces from maintaining "the personal touch," which is all important in dealing with an untamed population.

Conflict of Authority.
Where so pronounced a conflict of opinion prevails it is difficult to arrive at any very definite conclusion. It is clear that we must refrain from all recrimination arising out of misunderstandings or shortcomings dating from the Great War. The Royal Air Force should no longer stigmatise the Army as being insufficiently "air-minded" and incapable of adapting itself to the use of the air weapon. The Army, on the other hand, can no longer dare belittle the results attained by aircraft, for it cannot act without the Air Force in future; indeed it must rely upon it implicitly for specific purposes. The aeroplane has more than proved its worth in semi-civilised expeditions; it has shown itself to be both an invaluable means of transport and a weapon of undreamed potency in such warfare. The Air Force, however, must admit that it has limitations, that the air personnel can possess no intrinsic superiority in dealing with refractory tribesmen, while the efficacy of collective punishment is strictly confined to conditions of time and crime. Finally it is clear that the further the occasion recedes from actual warfare or punitive operations the greater becomes the difficulties of employing air power for purposes of administration and justice.

Three Salient Points.
Three salient features "loom up" through the recent discussions. Firstly, the use of aircraft may impart to our administration of wild regions a totally new orientation. The aeroplane, however friendly its visit may be, will be coming from a distance, and may not be regarded as working on the native mind in the same way as a military post firmly settled among half-tamed natives. Aircraft may too easily be regarded as an embodiment of a threat or of collective punishment. It should, therefore, be associated with our other instruments of administration, either as a means of transport or as a weapon in the last resort, in the scheme of peaceful penetration and rigid enforcement of justice that has characterised British rule in such countries. In its use a distinction must be drawn between "belligerent operations" and armed police work. Secondly, it is lamentable to see that there can exist even a flavour of competition for prior place in this type of Imperial police work. The matter will not be solved by allotting this or that area to one or another combatant service. What is needed is an economical use of the best brains, the best men and the best instruments for the task. It seems as though we may not see this come to pass until we have a combined staff of the three Services to thrash out these problems. Thirdly, we are left wondering whether the cleavage of opinion now revealed might not be the prelude to graver dimensions as to the predominance of this or that Service in time of war. Is it possible that this aspect of the case may not force us, willy-nilly, into a Ministry of Defence to hold the scales between the three Services?

GIVE BROADCASTING A CHANCE.

AN APPEAL TO REASON.

SOME GOOD ADVICE FOR LISTENERS TO FOLLOW.

In view of some of the recent complaints by local listeners about the character of Hong Kong radio programmes, it is rather interesting to see how Sir John Reith, of the British Broadcasting Corporation, deals with similar critics at home. He says:—

Broadcasting is a common-place today. It is firmly established, and its applications are widespread. Few remember the difficulties which attended its entry into this country, nor the debt due to the wireless trade, first for its introduction at all; second, for the system under which it was introduced; and third, for the manner in which it was conducted from 1922 to 1928.

Many of the large companies themselves wished to broadcast, but at considerable sacrifice of individual interest, to meet the wishes of the Postmaster-General, they joined together, pooled their patent and technical resources, and gave the infant B.B.C. the benefit of these assets.

For the first six months the service was conducted on the capital they provided and by royalties on apparatus.

Broadcasting therefore began and for the first four years was conducted under the aegis of the wireless trade. Its future and its influence were to a great extent in the hands of the trade. This might have been unfortunate. Indeed, it would have been so had not the trade, and in particular the eight trade directors of the company, taken a disinterested view of their responsibilities.

and recognised the public service obligations of the medium.

Certainly this view was a wise one, but things might have been very different. As it happened, in no instance were the interests of broadcasting, as such, or the interests of the public, subordinated to the interests of the wireless trade, and under the aegis of the trade a new tradition of public service was founded and a new national asset created.

Early Difficulties.

Particularly in early days, and to some extent still, the new industry laboured under serious disadvantages. The technique of transmissions rapidly improved; so also the technique of reception.

The system of distribution was subject to periodic development and revision. The original licensing regulations, according to which only apparatus made by member firms of the B.B.C. was eligible for use with the Post Office licence, were found to be unworkable.

The eight statutory main stations were soon in operation, but were unable adequately to cover the country. Manufacturers were left with large stocks and were unable, owing to rapidly changing conditions, to manufacture in bulk. Relay stations and high-power stations, the crystal set policy, interference from foreign stations, all combined to make manufacturing problems very difficult.

The trade had also to try to keep pace with the improvements in transmission and the increasing scope of the programmes, and to give really good quality of reproduction.

Three Prejudices.

Broadcasting has three great prejudices. First, the insufficiency of wave-lengths available in this country and interference from abroad. This is a harassing affair. Without the efforts of the Union Internationale de Radio-diffusion, established in 1924, etheric conditions in Europe to-day would have been quite chaotic.

The union has gained increasing prestige and authority since its establishment, and listeners in this country have much cause for gratitude to Admiral Carpendale, of the B.B.C., now in the fourth year of his presidency, and to Captain Eckersley for what they have done for Europe in general, while always safeguarding the interests of Great Britain.

The second prejudice is inferior apparatus. It is disheartening to those who arrange programmes, and know what reception can be, to hear the quality with which great numbers of listeners have to put up, and with which many even seem content.

The criterion should simply be this, that unless speech and music of any normal kind can be heard, say, in the next room in the case of a loud speaker, so that it is really like the original, then something is wrong with the gear.

It is not necessarily a question of money. The distribution system, with the Regional Scheme, and its alternative programmes, is becoming stabilised, and further changes are not anticipated. There is any amount of good apparatus on the market, and at reasonable prices.

Indiscriminate Listening.

The third prejudice is indiscriminate listening. When wireless is first installed it is a novelty, and people probably listen too much. The novelty wears off, interest flags, and boredom results. There are those who think they should be entertained or edified or instructed according to the particular desire of the moment.

They are annoyed if, on switching on, they hear something they do not like. They may switch on haphazard a dozen times a week, and on each occasion hear nothing which pleases them. They sometimes forget that there is wireless apparatus in almost every second home in the land, and that there are millions of others whose tastes are certainly not identical with their own.

Programmes cannot be modelled on individual desire. They should be studied in advance, a selection made of the items which will be of interest, and these listened to seriously.

With adequate apparatus and with discriminate listening there are few homes, however favoured, to which broadcasting cannot bring its additional quota of interest and delight. A child will be able to handle the set. Do not let technicalities and paraphernalia distract.

SOME USEFUL HINTS.

The output stage of a set can be "separated" by means of a filter choke and condenser. The choke must be of good make, having low D.C. resistance in order to reduce unnecessary loss of voltage, and its value should be of 20 henries. The choke is connected between the H.T. terminal, which supplies the last valve, and the anode of the last valve itself. A lead is taken from this latter side of the choke to one terminal of a 2mf. condenser. The other side of the condenser is joined to one terminal of the loud-speaker, and the remaining side of the speaker is to low tension negative. This device is valuable as a stabilising medium, is useful in many other ways, and fully justifies its inclusion in any two-transformer-coupled receiver.

When an aerial is not in use it should be connected direct to earth outside the house by means of an earthing switch.

There is often little difference between a circuit used for short-waves and that used for medium-waves, so that a great many ordinary receiving-sets when fitted with short-wave coils can be operated as short-wave receivers.

When soldering, both the iron and the working surfaces must be kept perfectly clean.

It is usually unwise to attempt to use ordinary six-pin coils for a set for which binocular coils have been specified.

Hand-capacity can often be reduced by changing over the leads to the condenser in question.

QUERY CORNER.

D.J.—(A) It is impossible to reply to this without knowing what the connections are to the jack. (B) This condenser is attached to earth, and acts as a safety device. (C) Undoubtedly Saigon.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Here are lists of long-wave and short-wave stations which should be picked up by anyone in Hong Kong who has a moderately good set suitable for receiving such signals. Success in picking up these stations also depends very largely upon favourable atmospheric conditions. Readers are invited to add to this list should they succeed in picking up any station not included in either of these lists.

RADIO IN AMERICA.

EXHIBITION IN NEW YORK.

Sale of at least 4,000,000 radio sets during the 1930-31 season is confidently predicted by officials of the Radio World's Fair which opened at Madison Square Garden New York, this week.

Many of the new models will have their first public presentation during the show. The outstanding feature of a recent survey was disclosure of a widening field for making radio entertainment, and communication available everywhere in the nation and under all circumstances; even while in motion, in the automobile, yacht, train or airplane.

Direct current receivers will be available for dwellers in metropolitan areas on a production basis which heretofore has been necessary to purchase additional expensive equipment to the regular receivers.

More efficient battery-operated sets have been perfected in the laboratories, and manufacturers claim the new receivers will deliver on a par with all-electric sets.

New "Long-Distance" Battery.

The National Carbon Company has developed a battery that is said to be able to furnish current for 600 hours without recharging. This innovation will aid farmers and others located in parts of the country where there is no electric current available to operate radios to the fullest extent. The new battery produces an even flow of current and results in much clearer reception and greater selectivity. It also is on a par with an electric-operated set with regard to volume.

G. Clayton Irwin, Jr., general manager of the Radio World's Fair, declares the following table will serve as an indicator to the 1930-31 radio sales:

| | |
|--|-----------|
| Alternating and Direct Current Receivers | 2,250,000 |
| Battery Receivers | 1,000,000 |
| Mantle or Portable Receivers | 500,000 |
| Automobile receivers | 250,000 |
| Total | 4,000,000 |

The survey of manufacturers discloses that there have been many improvements in circuits of A.C. radio receivers, and many innovations make this year's sets capable of performance far ahead of previous years. Circuits of extreme sensitivity were placed on display by many manufacturers who have previously refrained from producing such types.

The Radio World's Fair also shows cabinet work in new design, finish and workmanship said to surpass in beauty past examples of the cabinet-maker's art. Many manufacturers show models of receiving sets and phonograph combined.

There are also daily broadcasts over the leading networks from the Crystal Studios, located on the exhibition floor. Various leading manufacturers conduct their regular weekly programme from this studio, so spectators may witness their favorite artists "go on the air."

New and improved models were also various demonstrations and exhibitions featuring leading developments in the fields of radio and television.

AMATEUR'S IDEAL RECEIVER.

ALL THE LATEST FEATURES IN ONE CABINET.

Speculation is rife both in England and in the United States with regard to new sets for the coming season. Two English receivers, both embracing noteworthy new features, are already well on the way, and several other novelties are promised.

One of the popular radio clubs of New York has instituted a competition with regard to the "ideal receiver" for 1931, and the results published so far embrace many points of interest for radio enthusiasts in England.

There seems to be a general consensus of opinion that the "ideal" set must include at least one stage of screened-grid high-frequency, and preferably two. In the detector stage the leaky grid system appears to be preferred to the anode bend, but no specific reason is assigned for this choice. The final stage is a power or super-power valve.

It is significant of the influence of the portable receiver on public taste that the "ideal" set should include the self-contained frame aerial, but supplemented by sockets for external aerial and earth in order that the range of the set may be increased when it is so desired.

All Self-Contained.

A departure from portable set practice is the almost unanimous insistence on a double-tuning control as ensuring greater selectivity. The ganged condenser system finds no place in the majority of entries, which, as a whole, favour the rather complicated systems of the pre-portable era.

The sum of the whole matter is that the "ideal" set for 1931 should combine the best features of the portable set and the "laboratory" set, should be transportable without strain, and must be self-contained in cabinet form.

What the manufacturers say to these proposals has yet to be learned. Meanwhile the attention of American wireless enthusiasts seems to be concentrated on a new super-heterodyne receiver which is equipped with four stages of screened-grid high-frequency, detector, and two stages of low-frequency.

It is claimed for this new model that it has the most highly developed superheterodyne circuit "since its invention by Armstrong during the world war," and that it has three times the selectivity and four times the sensitiveness of any other existing type.

Other features of this receiver are nine tuned circuits, tone control in addition to volume control, a magnified illuminated dial, scientifically accurate dial scale in kilocycles, improved switch for D.X. and local reception, and finally "comparatively low price."

"THEY LEARNED ABOUT WOMEN."

Nina Mae McKinney, dusky star of "King Vidor's" "Hallelujah," again demonstrates her exotic song-and-dance ability in "They Learned About Women," Van and Schenck's first talking picture, which is now showing at the Queen's Theatre as a new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature.

The coloured actress heads a glittering stage ensemble in which a new song number, "Harlem Madness," is featured with an all-coloured chorus directed by Sammy Lee, who created the dance routine.

Bessie Love plays opposite Van and Schenck, and the supporting cast includes Mary Doran, Benny Rubin, Tommy Dugan, J. C. Nugent, Eddie Gribbon and Francis X. Bushman, Jarr Jack Conway and Sam Wood directed.

"Hot For Paris."

Directly after finishing his work in "The Cock-eyed World," Victor McLaglen laid aside his marine uniforms for a time and visited the Fox wardrobe to be fitted out in a nautical costume representing his new rôle, first mate of a wind-jammer sailing between Sydney and Marseilles.

It's the rôle he plays in Raoul Walsh's latest Fox Movietone talking picture "Hot For Paris," coming on Friday to the Queen's Theatre. The story conceived by Walsh was also directed by him and is admirably fitted to McLaglen's athletic fame.

The story chiefly concerns "John Patrick Duke," a "sailor bloke" who, on shore leave, purchases a ticket in the Longchamps Sweepstakes. He wins because "Dark Japan," a long shot, comes under the wire first. McLaglen does not know he wins and the strenuous chase to find him and his equally strenuous escapes from his pursuers forms the basis of many laughable incidents.

When he is finally roped and tied and handed a million dollars the fun begins in earnest for he goes to Paris with his buddy "Axel Olson" as played by El Brendel on a spending spree. They meet Fifi Dorsay, the vivacious French girl of "They Had to See Paris," fame, and Polly Moran, who amuse the merry visitors.

Walsh has cast a brilliant support including Charles Judels, Lennox Pawle, August Tollaie and others, and the production is said to be even funnier than his previous successes, "Great Price Glory," and "The Cock-eyed World," combined.

"Rio Rita" is First to Show Screen Power.

There is a new phase of the theatrical business in the making. Broadway producers are beginning to wonder about "stage rights" to screen productions for the first time.

One of the films that has brought about this new point of view on the exchange of "stage and screen material and talent" is "Rio Rita," the all-talking, all-musical extravaganza Radio Pictures, now showing to full houses at the Central Theatre, was made from the Ziegfeld hit. For Radio Pictures, it is admitted on every side, has out-Ziegfelded Ziegfeld for splendour and spectacle in the presentation of Harry Tierney's operetta.

The immediate reaction to the rich production value of the film "Rio Rita," is new music, new costumes and wealth of colour and beauty, is that Broadway stage producers soon will "sneak" "stage rights" to the big screen productions instead of the screen invading Broadway for its ideas and talent.

There were several figures connected with the screening of "Rio Rita" who were associated in the original stage production. Harry Tierney, who wrote the score was one. Victor Baraville, who directed it, was another. Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, who played their original comedy rôles in the Radio Picture version, Helen Kaiser and Kay English, former Ziegfeld show girls, and others of the cast of Radio Pictures' "Rio Rita" all have been in several of Broadway's most successful musical comedies.

All declared the HKO "Rio Rita" was the most gorgeously dressed production they had ever seen. To Max Rees, art supervisor of Radio Pictures, goes much of the credit for the splendor with which "Rio Rita" was produced. An architect and a picture director, which were photographed in colour, were the most sumptuous—and the most costly—that have been built thus far in the new era of talking pictures.

FILM STARS FOR THE STAGE.

MARY PICKFORD AMONG THEM.

Twilight is descending upon the rods of Hollywood.
The revolution that talking pictures has wrought is shown in the announcement that five of the best-known film stars—Mary Pickford, Lya de Putti, Colleen Moore,
Vilma Banky and Rod La Rocque—are deserting the screen to appear on the New York stage during the autumn season.

It is stated that Douglas Fairbanks is also considering a stage contract, while 'Great Gatsby', Ronald Colman, Bebe Daniels and Norma Shearer will also come to Broadway if terms can be arranged.
Mary Pickford and the others deny that they are abandoning films for good and say that their failure to make a success in talkies has been largely due to poor material. The talkies, however, do demand a new technique and it is no secret that these players are hoping to get sufficient stage experience in New York to enable them to meet powerful rivalry of the new stars created by the talkies.

Mary Pickford, who has not appeared on the stage since 1908, recently abandoned the talking picture she was making and threatened to throw up films for good. Colleen Moore is preparing to enter a Broadway musical comedy; Lya de Putti will make her debut in a war play, "Made in France," while Vilma Banky will appear for the first time on the stage in "How to be Happy," a Hungarian play.
It may be doubted whether some of these pilgrims from Hollywood will ever return there.

The first ten motor cycles of Russian make have just been turned out by the Krany-Otkin factory at Leningrad. It is intended that the coming economic year which begins on October 1 while after that the yearly production is to be brought up to 6,000 annually.

POSTAGE STAMPS.

WEEKLY NOTES FOR COLLECTORS.

UNNECESSARY ISSUES OF 1891.

SOME CURIOUS MISUNDER- STANDINGS.

[By W.S.]

The year 1891 affords a real treasure to collectors of varieties and unnecessary issues. The 7 cents on 10 and the 14 cents on 30 were more or less accidental. The Jubilee commemoratives (or any more appropriate term which one might feel disposed to give them) were unnecessary, and the many errors and varieties which are to be found in the Chinese surcharges, applied, locally, to the 30c., 45c.,
and 90c. values, were no doubt due to carelessness for which little excuse can be offered.

To commence at the beginning,
it is necessary to attend the meeting of the Finance Committee of the Legislative Council held on December 11, 1890. The Chairman rose to inform hon. members, with reference to the question of reduction of postage that was brought before them six weeks ago, that a telegram had at the moment been received from the Secretary of State in which he says:—"Reduced postal rates generally approved.
Commencement here January 1. Strongly recommended homeward
mail nearly as possible at same time. Telegraph reply."

An Ambiguous Cable.
It will be admitted that the telegram presents an ambiguity which makes the intention difficult to grasp without knowledge of the contents of the papers which were laid on the table six weeks before.
Whatever the correct meaning of the telegram was, it must be accepted that this Colony missed it, since after a great deal of discussion at the meeting referred to above and at the meeting of the Legislative Council held on December 15, the reduction of postage from 10 cents to 7 cents for a half-ounce letter was approved, with the result that Government notification No.
540 was published:—"It is hereby notified that on and after January 1, 1891, the rate of postage between Hong Kong and Union Countries will be reduced to 7 cents per half-ounce."

There appears to be very good reason for the belief that the original correspondence suggesting the reduction applied to postal rates between Hong Kong and the United Kingdom only, whereas this Colony took it as applicable to postal rates between Hong Kong and all Union Countries. The error was soon observed, or notified, with the result that Government notification No.
163 of 1891 was published in March which put the wrong right.

The Decimal Series.
In view of Mr. Lister's completion of a decimal series as introduced by him after an effort over a number of years, it seems, on the surface, somewhat ludicrous that within a few months of his statement from the position of Postmaster-General his accomplishment should be knocked into nothingness by the introduction of two provisional values, viz., 7 cents and 14 cents, which were entirely adverse to his scheme of things, but it is hoped that the following explanation will go far to prove my earlier statements that the Postal Authorities' first consideration, at all times, was the interests of the community.

A Wrong Impression.
I have already stated that these provisionals were accidental, and so that it should be clear that this statement is not a negation of the one immediately above, the respect in which they were accidental is here given. Had it been understood locally that the reduction was purely a test measure, it is very doubtful if such surcharges would have been warranted or would have ever existed, but having the impression that the reduction was to be universally adopted throughout the Postal Union countries, it was considered advisable, as well as an act of economy, to surcharge the 10 cents green, which had been displaced by the 10 cents purple on red, and the 30 cents mauve, which had been displaced by the 30 cents green, with values which would be beneficial to the community, in spite of their non-compliance with the decimal system.
The intention of the United Kingdom having been made clear in the meantime, it was decided that regular stamps of 7c. and 14c. should not be requisitioned and that the displaced stamps only should be surcharged, and when these were used up, continuance of the said values should not be considered, since the ultimate action of the United Kingdom could not be satisfactorily determined to an extent sufficient to justify the expenditure of either printing stamps of the value or of surcharging other values.

Public Inconvenience.
How long the provisionals lasted it is difficult to say, but it most certainly appears that the duration

public through the want of 7 and 14 cent stamps. If the present rate to England is to be maintained, it is desirable that the convenience of the public should be not by the issue of 7 and 14 cent stamps. The dies of former issues have no doubt been preserved by the Crown Agents, and there should be no difficulty in printing a supply of stamps from them with the surcharges of 7 cents and 14 cents in the same way as in the case of the 20 cents and 50 cents at present in use.

By the wording of the above paragraph the fact cannot be disputed that the provisionals had long before been used up, and that even at this date it was not clear as to how much longer the rate to England was to be maintained.
Whether in view of Mr. Northcote's statement, Government referred the matter home for information on the point is not known, but it is significant that the Report is dated April 7, and on July 2 Government notification No. 232 was published, which stated:—"On and after August 1 the rate of postage between Hong Kong and the United Kingdom will be 7 cents per half-ounce." So that once again a common rate is adopted for all Union Countries.

Two Interesting Varieties.
With reference to the surcharges
mentioned above, two very interesting varieties exist which are worthy of a little attention.
Gibbons' catalogue records an antique "c" in the words "cents"
of both values, and the double surcharge of the "7 cents," and it is to these varieties that I would refer. Others exist which have their peculiar interest, but I think those above mentioned are by far the most outstanding. Gibbons' catalogue states:—"The true anti-quo 'c' must not be confused with a small 'c' with short foot, which is sometimes mistaken for it.
In the antique 'c' the cross-bar is accurately bisected by the vertical stroke, the latter being thick at the top. The lower curve bends towards the right, and does not turn upwards so far as the normal."
Whilst such advice and information should always be accepted as given with a desire to prevent collectors from being cheated by the many fakes and forgeries which are known to exist, it is possible to place too much reliance in such statements, with the result that the genuine might be missed merely because it does not conform in absolute detail to the description given.

A Doubtful Point.
For instance, where a thick ink is used, is it reasonable to expect that a cross-bar 1.33 mm in length could be accurately bisected by a line .33 in thickness, where pressure is brought to bear? I doubt it;
and yet from experience more collectors are known to place far more importance on this one point than on the several others which exist.
As a matter of fact, with due deference to the above information,
I cannot agree that the cross-bar is accurately bisected, and for the sake of readers who might attach little if any importance to this disagreement, I would state that it is based on a superb block of four mint stamps, three being normal and one with the antique "c" and a single unused copy.
Little need be said regarding the double surcharge since these might exist in many positions, my own copy being of the overlapping kind,
and of the kind most common amongst the double surcharge varieties.

POSTAGE STAMP HONOUR FOR DUTCHMAN.

A man must be very famous for a letter merely addressed "To the illustrious Boerhaave, physician in Europe," to reach its destination—especially two hundred years ago. Yet this is what happened when a Chinese mandarin wanted to get into touch with one of Holland's most famous scholars, Hermann Boerhaave.

The portrait of this great man is the fitting subject of one of four children's charity stamps issued by Holland in 1928.

Two hundred years ago Leyden University, as a seat of learning, was almost better known than are our own Oxford and Cambridge to-day. Leyden was particularly noted for its medical courses, and this well-deserved fame was due greatly to the tireless efforts of Hermann Boerhaave.

Besides being a leading savant of his age, Boerhaave was a most human schoolmaster, and his wise and kindly rectorship of Leyden University was known in the royal households throughout the length and breadth of the Europe of his day. Peter the Great of Russia took especial pains to have lessons from him.

As his own postage-stamp proclaims, Boerhaave lived from 1688 until 1738.

Portuguese Colonial Stamps.

The present postage stamps of the Portuguese Colonies are shortly to be replaced by new issues in improved designs. An improved version of the now familiar "Reaper" type will be shared by the colonies of Cape Verde, Portuguese Guinea, St. Thomas, and Prince Islands and Angola. Designs of a more distinctive character have been provided for the stamps of the East African colonies, Portuguese India, Macao, and Timor. Nineteen denominations comprise the series in each instance, ranging from 1 centavo to 20 escudos, except as regards the colony of Angola, whose higher values are expressed for the first time in terms of a new currency unit—namely, the "angolar." The denominations of the Portuguese Indian series are indicated, as at present, in reis, tangas, and rupias, and those of Macao and Timor in the local avos and patacas. It is not yet known how soon the new stamps will actually be ready for issue.

Curious.

A curious variety has been noted by philatelists in the latest supply of 1d. postage stamps of the Union of South Africa as printed at Pretoria by the rotary process and issued in continuous strips of 500 stamps. In the ordinary way these stamps are inscribed alternately in English and Afrikaans, the two official languages of the Union, but in this case the third and fourth stamps in every roll both have the English lettering and the fifth and six both Afrikaans. It is presumed that this is an error in laying down the printing plate which will probably be rectified in future printings.

German Charity Issue.

A series of charity stamps was issued in Germany this month, consisting of four beautifully engraved views of Aachen (8 pfennig), the Brandenburg Gate, Berlin (15 pfennig), the Cathedral of Fribourg (25 pfennig), and the Marienberg fortress at Würzburg (50 pfennig).

These stamps are on general sale with a supplementary charge in favour of a fund for anti-tuberculosis work. But they were first presented in the unusual form of miniature sheets, bearing inscriptions of all four subjects on each sheet. These little sheets were sold at the "Ipostea" or International Postage Stamp Exhibition in Berlin from September 12 to 21.

The postal value of the set is 98 pfennig, the charity supplement 50 pfennig, and there is a special surtax on the little sheets of 13 pfennig, so that each sheet will cost 170 reichsmark. It seems rather a complicated way for the German postal administration to lend its support to a philatelic exhibition.

Portraits in Stamps.

A Swedish collector, Mr. Frederik Arsenius, has published through Messrs. Olofssons Brothers of Stockholm, a fully-illustrated book, "Porträt-Frimärken," which is a concise dictionary of international biography. For years Mr. Arsenius has collected stamps bearing portraits, and he has gathered together stamp pictures of 948 different personages. In this book he illustrates the names and gives brief biographical details of all these people, who range from Mariage, Abasco of Mexico to Ahmed Bogu of Albania. Only a very few of the personages are so obscure as to have yielded no data to the compiler's diligent researches.

STAMPS FOR AIR MAIL.

GREAT BRITAIN PREFERS ORDINARY ISSUES.

The British Post Office has made it clear that no special stamps will be issued for air mail in Great Britain. The official view is that the public would be less likely to use the air mail services if they had to have special stamps on hand as well as the ordinary postage stamps. Meanwhile air-mail stamps preponderate in the new issues from other countries, where such stamps are regarded as good propaganda for their air services.

Switzerland has added a new denomination to its current series, 2 francs, brown, in a very fanciful design by M. Pierre Vibert, showing a number of birds in flight carrying letters. Enscheldt & Sons, of Haarlem, a pretty set of air-mail stamps in bi-coloured photogravure. They are of large size, and show at the left a framed portrait of the Shah Riza Khan, and at the right a picture of an eagle in flight over mountains. The inscriptions are in French (Postes Aeriennes Persanes) and Arabic. There are seventeen denominations from 1 to 15 chabli, 1 to 5 krans and 1 to 3 tomanes.

Boosting Coffee!

An aeroplane over mountains is depicted on a new 6 centavos rose air stamp from Guatemala, which serves also to proclaim in English that "Guatemala produces the best coffee in the world."

Costa Rica has issued 12,000 sets of overprinted stamps for air mail of the values 8, 20, 40 centimos and 1 colon, and Ecuador has celebrated the Bogota-Quito flight by Capt. Mendez on June 4 this year by three overprinted stamps of 1, 5 and 10 sucres.

ANTWERP STAMP EXHIBITION.

VALUABLE BRITISH EXHIBITS.

Stamp collections valued at approximately £250,000 were exhibited by British collectors at a Universal Philatelic Exhibition which opened at Antwerp recently in connection with the great Maritime and Colonial Exposition.

Notable Exhibitors.

Among the exhibitors was Mr. John Drinkwater, the playwright, whose important collection of postage stamps of the United States of America and the Confederate States is shown in public for the first time. No fewer than 10 entries have been made by Mr. D. D. Bernard, of Croydon, in various classes, comprising, in addition to a selection of standard philatelic rarities, specialized studies of the stamps of Spain, Roumania, Peru, Transvaal, New South Wales, Western Australia, Nova Scotia, and the Philippine Islands, as well as a most interesting display of stamps, proofs, and essays. Valuable collections of the British West Indian colonies are shown by Captain L. J. Gilbert Lodge, hon. secretary of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, and the matchless collection of Cape of Good Hope stamps formed by Mr. R. F. A. Riesco is once more in evidence. Another exhibit that has already gained high awards at international exhibitions is the superbly annotated "Agnaw" collection of Chinese stamps.

Other noteworthy British exhibits included Mr. W. W. Forth's St. Vincent, Mr. E. J. Lee's Uruguay, Mr. C. W. Siggers's Great Britain, Mr. E. A. Leigh's Cambria, Mr. A. Grimwood's Indians, Mr. B. Wedmore's Prussians and rarities, and Dr. J. Stafford Johnson's collection of Lombardo-Venetia. Air Post stamps are contributed by two women, Miss W. Penn-Gaskell, of Ashburton, and Mme. Poldewaka-Kezell, of the Polish Legation. Important specialized collections of British postage stamps are exhibited by Mr. E. H. Lee and Dr. J. P. O'Connor, and one of the Belgian Congo issues by Mr. J. Wright. Miss Raphael has sent her well-known collection of British Colonials, and Mr. D. Everard a representative selection of stamps on the original covers. The British exhibits are in charge of Mr. Frank Godden, one of the special commissioners for the Antwerp Philatelic Exhibition.

Novel Exhibition Stamp Issued.

The inevitable "exhibition stamp" was provided by the Belgian postal authorities, and was available solely to visitors to the philatelic pavilion. Of the nominal value 4 francs, it was actually sold for 8 francs, which price includes a ticket of admission to the exhibition. The design, reproduced in large square format, represents the city arms of Antwerp supported by figures of the city's two vanquished rulers, Brabant, who became first Duke of Brabant. A total of 6,000 copies of this special postage stamp were printed, and remained on sale until the exhibition closed on August 16.

SOVIET WHEAT IN ENGLAND.

CROP SOLD UNDER MARKET PRICES.

London, Sept. 16.—The Daily Express says that the enormous accumulation of Russian wheat in England can only make the economic situation of the United Kingdom more critical.

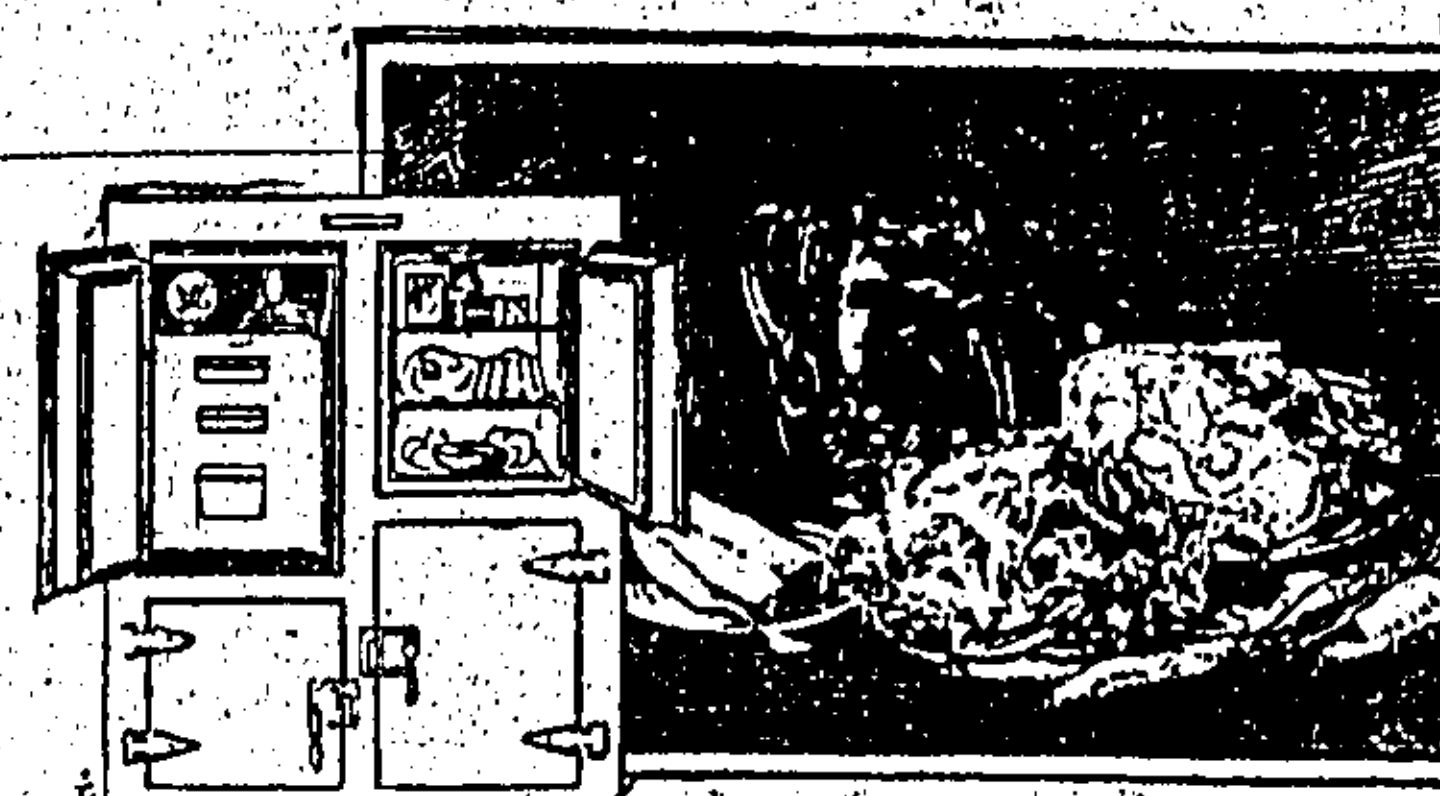

More than 40,000 tons of Russian wheat have been shipped from Black Sea ports to England, and although a serious shortage of food prevails in Russia, Soviet agents in London are selling the Russian crop under market prices and continue their policy of dumping.

Having no regular economic relations with the rest of the world, Russia can apparently afford to lose money in selling Soviet products under cost price, but in fact, there is no cost price for the Soviet, as the monetary system inside the country is completely artificial.

TURKISH FINANCIAL MEASURES.

Stamboul, September 19.—The new Finance Law to be voted on by the Turkish Chamber will authorize the Government to make use of bank notes held in the State reserve. They will be added to the amount legally in circulation and used for the purchase of foreign currencies.

When officials of the lighthouse service of the Department of Commerce in Washington investigated the extinguishing of Cape Ann and Nauset gas and whistling buoys, both off the coast of Massachusetts, recently, they found great numbers of hornets inside the lanterns. Humarock gas buoy had also been visited by hornets, but the light had not yet been extinguished. These buoys are located from three to five miles offshore. Two years ago, the service had trouble with lights extinguished by large horseflies.

Kelvinator's dry, frosty cold actually improves foods

When you use Kelvinator Electric Refrigeration, you use a metal freezing unit to cool your refrigerator. This freezing unit stays so cold it becomes thickly coated with frost, and the air in the refrigerator becomes dry and frosty. This is true refrigeration. It actually improves foods. The good things you keep in your refrigerator are better than ever when you take them out.

Kelvinator requires no attention—you simply forget it. It regulates itself and your refrigerator stays cold day after day whether you are at home or visiting. It can be installed in your own refrigerator. Phone or call and learn how.

Kelvinator
The Great Domestic Electric Refrigeration.

The Zone of Kelvination

Kelvinator maintains a condition of dry, frosty cold that is constantly under fifty degrees. This is the Zone of Kelvination. It is much colder than the average refrigerator.

In this intensely cold and dry air, foods not only keep fresh and sweet for days but actually improve. Meats become mellow and acquire a delicious tenderness and flavor. Green salads and vegetables "crisp up" in a marvelous way. All perishable foods stay sweet, wholesome and inviting.

A woman is not necessarily a shrew because she can express herself with fluency on matters upon which she feels strongly. The personal appearance of her menfolk is one of these matters, and alas! men often fall short of the woman's ideal standard where clothing is concerned.

If your wife read this she would support every word we've said. "Haven't I said so often? That old grey hat of yours, for instance. Not fit even for gardening in. Why don't you..." and so on.

Why not please the lady by paying us a visit and letting our expert guidance direct your choice of underwear, shirts and socks, and those other items which add up to a well-dressed man.

KOWLOON BAND CONCERTS.

END OF THE SEASON.

There was a large attendance at the Kowloon Football Club ground last night, when the last of the series of six band recitals was given. Musically, and socially, the experiment has been a huge success; financially, the result has been rather disappointing, but it would be most unfortunate if so popular an outdoor attraction were not repeated next summer.

Last night it was the band of the 2nd Battalion Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders under the conductorship of Mr. C. S. Beat, A.R.C.M., which was heard in the following programme.

- 1.—March on Themes from "Der Ring des Nibelungen," Richard Wagner (1813-83).
- 2.—Excerpt from Dramatic Symphony in B minor "Unfinished," Schubert.
- 3.—Selection, "Rose Marie," Friml.
- 4.—Scottish Melodies by Combined Band and Pipes, Arr. C. S. Beat.
- 5.—Rhythmic Medley, "On with the Show" (1930), Arr. Somers.
- 6.—Highland Dances, Sword Dance, Foursome Reel, Piper J. Anderson.
- 7.—Czardas from the Opera, "Der Geist des Volwoden," Grossmann.
- 8.—Humoresque, Dvorak.
- 9.—Two Songs:
(a) "Bonny Wee Thing," Arr. C. S. Beat.
(b) "Wells o' Weary," Arr. C. S. Beat.
- 10.—Selection of Old Favourites, Squire.

Just before the interval Mr. J. Smith, President of the Kowloon Residents' Association, gave a brief address expressing thanks to all those who had assisted in various ways in popularising the series of Band Recitals which came to an end last night. On behalf of Kowloon residents generally, the speaker thanked the Government for its financial assistance, the Bandmasters and musicians of the regiments, the Motor Bus Companies for transport facilities, China Light and Power Co., Ltd., and the Kowloon Football Club for the use of its ground. The applause which greeted the speaker's remarks testified to the popular appreciation of the various services rendered in connection with the recitals.

FOOTBALLER TURNS SNATCHER.

STEALS GOLD CHAIN FROM CHINESE LADY.

PRISON AND THE BIRCH.

The Kiu Shun, described as a South China A.A. footballer, was yesterday sentenced to a term of nine months imprisonment and twenty strokes of the birch on being convicted of snatching a gold chain from a Chinese lady, the wife of the manager of the Taiping Theatre.

Detective-Sergeant Clark, who prosecuted, said that the complainant was leaving the theatre in a motor car when the snatching took place. She was sitting in the middle of the back seat with two children and a servant. The car had just started to move and was gathering speed when the defendant came up from behind, and putting his hand through the opening at the back of the hood snatched the gold chain from the complainant's neck. The thief got away and no report was made to the police, but they later received information of the matter and effected his arrest.

Detective-Sergeant Clark stated that the defendant had played football for the South China A.A. and he had a very good character. He told the police that he would turn over a new leaf when the present case was over.

His Worship remarked that it was a very serious thing to snatch from women and children and he could not possibly overlook the offence. He sentenced defendant as stated above.

LOTTERY ORGANIZERS SUMMONED.

FATHER AND SON FINED.

Mr. F. Ritchie and his son, Mr. M. Ritchie, of 30 Pilkom Street, were summoned before Mr. H. H. Butters at Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, the father for having, between August 1 and September 15, at Kowloon, unlawfully written, printed or caused to be written or published, an announcement relating to a lottery of jewellery prizes to be drawn in December, 1930, and the son with having unlawfully announced the above lottery at the Russian Club in Salisbury Avenue.

Outlining the case, Detective Sergeant Poynte said that this lottery was not exactly in the nature of a raffle, as the prizes in question did not exist. The defendants had offered 170 chances at $1 each, and the prizes were to cost less than $170, so that the defendants would be able to make a little profit out of the lottery. The first defendant, said Sergeant Poynte, had stated that he had organized a similar lottery some time last year. As this was the first case of its kind and the defendants were prepared to refund the money collected, the D.S.P.K. (Mr. Burlingham) did not want to take a serious view of the case.

Despite that fact, continued the officer, the lottery was illegal and he had been instructed to ask for fines, which would serve in the nature of a warning, to be imposed on the defendants. Mr. F. Ritchie, it was stated, had been residing in Hong Kong for 30 years and during the war he served in the Police Reserve.

Defendants, who pleaded guilty, were fined $10 each.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH WEDDING.

MR. JOSEPH MORRIS AND MRS. BEULAH STICH.

The wedding took place at St. Andrew's Church, Kowloon, on Tuesday, of Mr. Joseph Wheeler Morris, of the Dollar Steamship Line, and Miss Lillian Beulah Stich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Stich, of Chicago, U.S.A. Mr. Morris is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Morris, of Atlanta, Georgia. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. W. Walton Rogers.

Mr. C. P. F. James gave the bride away. The bride dress was of white ivory satin with veil and she carried a bunch of white roses. Miss Rhoda Arndt, the bridesmaid, was arrayed in pink silk with roses to match. Mrs. James, the matron of honour, wore a dress of flowered georgette. Mr. T. B. Wilson discharged the duties of "best man." A reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James, 5, Minden Villas, Kowloon, where the newly-married couple were the recipients of congratulations from their many friends. The honeymoon is being spent at Manila and Baguio, whither they left by the s.s. Baguio. Mrs. Morris' travelling dress was of flesh-coloured Swiss voile.

TENSION INCREASES AT FUME.

FASCIST MILITIA TEAR UP SERBIAN FLAG.

Belgrade, Sept. 19.—Serious incidents occurred to-day near Fume when tension along the frontier between Fascist and Serbian elements of the population is growing more serious daily.

About 1,000 members of the Fascist militia and the "Avantgarde" seized the Serbian flag, tore it to pieces and trampled it underfoot. The crowd in fury went to the border shouting anti-Serbian slogans and insulting and pursuing all Serbians who were encountered forcing them to take refuge at the other side of the border.

One touch upon my palm! How cold
The parting guest! How calm
And contemptuous to withhold
One touch upon my palm!

My heart would voice a psalm

I would bring my spirit balm

DEMONSTRATION OF FIRE FIGHTING APPARATUS.

SUCCESSFUL TESTS WITH FOAMITE FIREFOAM.

An effective and speedy method of fire extinguishing was demonstrated on the reclamation behind the Wan-chai Fire Station yesterday. Among those present were the Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe, C.M.G. (Inspector General of Police), Mr. H. T. Brooks (Superintendent, Fire Brigade), representatives of local firms and others interested in fire fighting apparatus. A large crowd watched the display from a distance.

Mr. P. Matthias, representative of American La France & Foamite Industries, Inc., New York City, and its British branch, Foamite Firefoam, Ltd., London, was in charge of the demonstration. Messrs. Dodwell & Co., Ltd., are the local agents for Hong Kong and China, and their representatives were also present and assisted in the demonstration.

The use of hand-extinguishers was shown in tests on a heap of burning wood and later on a tub of oil. In each case the fire died away in a few seconds under the action of Firefoam, which had the appearance of brown soap bubbles.

In the Foamite Generator test, a hose 150 feet long was connected to a fire appliance giving a water pressure of 100 pounds and a flow of 500 gallons per minute. The Foamite powder is led through a funnel into the Generator, 90 pounds of it being taken through the pipe per minute.

A spectacular sight was presented when a large pit containing about 150 gallons of oil, primed with petrol and kerosene, was set on fire. In a matter of 22 seconds nothing was left of the flames and black smoke which issued from the pit. The contents of less than one tin of powder, which holds 50 pounds, was used in the large scale test.

DEFENCE OF BRITISH COMPOSERS.

INCONSISTENCIES IN MUSICAL OUTLOOK.

LAST OF RADIO TALKS ON "MUSIC AND THE ALL-BROW."

The following extracts are taken from the last of the talks on Music and the All-Brow by Mr. C. Dudley Bartlett, broadcast by Z.B.W. last night:

In some ways we, as a nation, are a funny lot. As specimens, we are the most tolerant folk on the earth; records and "ashes" may be lifted from us, but there are no nations that can deprive us of first place in what is generally called "the sporting spirit." And yet the average Briton holds the most illogical views on the subject of hobbies other than sports, especially that of music.

If the typical individual who is left cold by music were asked what was his opinion of it, he would probably describe it as an effeminate outburst of passion indulged in by cranks and weaklings, and entirely alien to British mentality. He might concede that it provided quite a pleasant background to conversation and mastication, and that its main function is to provide the necessary rhythmic pulsation for dancing. So far as the technical training was concerned he would regard the vocal exercises and arduous finger practice as completely wasted energy. In fact, music is a pretty empty, but quite harmless pursuit, dependent entirely on a good voice or nimble hands or both.

No Great Woman Musician.

These views are badly shattered right away by a very simple fact. So far the world has not yet produced a really great feminine musician. The only members of the fair sex who have made their mark in the musical world are Chaminade, Ethel Smythe and a handful of song writers. "Non-sense," you may say. "What about Clara Butt, Melba, Myra Hess, Marie Hall, and heaps of others?" Agreed; they are perfectly splendid executants, but what have they written? You may be extremely keen on a certain actor or actress, but such folk are merely the mouthpieces of the playwright. "So it is with music. The real musician is the man who writes the stuff, not the waiter who serves it up for you. Very well, we poor males need not feel quite so small about our music-making after all, as compared to those who run music down if their opinions are based on such works and affections.

Mind you we've got ourselves very badly to blame. Why, oh why, do we ever make such fools of ourselves during late last, and early this, century with our long flowing locks, ditto ties and our exquisite aloofness from fellow non-musical mortals? And why did we turn out such nauseous and sickly worded songs as "Laddie" and "no, I won't mention others, as people to-day who sing such songs may be listening. All the same, one cannot but sympathise with the views of those who run music down if their opinions are based on such works and affections.

Probably the bulk of those listening turned out and heard "The English Singers" when they were here. Do you remember Mr. Cuthbert Kelly's delightful introductory remarks in which he said something to the effect that the lads of the village in Elizabethan times were considered as positively uncouth if they could not read and sing the inner parts of a madrigal or other part-song at sight? And here are we, cracking the old "Have at thee, malaprop" days up to the standard as being the heyday of British manhood. Hang it, you can't have it both ways.

Anti-Music School of Thought.

One could go on for the length of this entire talk, pulling to pieces the views of the anti-music school of thought, but there are other points to be discussed. Just let me say that music is a mentality rather than a physical activity, and that amongst non-performers there are far more truly musical people than there are executants. Bearing on this, there are many composers of to-day (a couple have come within my own acquaintance) who are not able to perform some of their own compositions, owing to their technical difficulties.

And now, having tried hard to put up a case for musicians in general, let me say something about British musicians.

Up to now, Great Britain can only boast of one musical activity in which she has stood head and shoulders above every other nation. For sheer musicianship, popular appeal and brilliance, no musical comedy, opera bouffe or other output of lighter operative work can hold a candle to those masterpieces which emanated from Gilbert and Sullivan. On the subject of their works, known of course to practically all listeners, one would have to say, "I have heard of them, but nothing at all. I will choose the latter course, however, is that at one time we were pre-eminent in the world of music. This was during that wonderful period, already alluded to, round about the reign of Good Queen Bess—the Purcell, Arne, Gibbons etc. period. Since that time, we have always been delighted to glory ourselves as an artistic nation and yield the palm to other countries. If in the past we have not been a musical nation, we have only ourselves to thank. Suppose a man wants to set up business as a manufacturer of tennis racquets and all the other members of the community say either that they prefer to buy them in another town or else take up Contract Bridge, the poor soul has to throw up his factory and take on some other job.

Turned Down by Public.

That is what has happened to the British musician in the past. He has slaved away, turned out most promising work and his nice kind friends of the public have turned him down. The few who have struggled on have had to do so almost in poverty, unless they have had the luck to turn out something in the lighter vein, which has tickled the public palate. Elgar, the greatest living British musician, has written many great masterpieces, but he has lived for years on the proceeds of "Salut d'Amour" and other extraordinarily clever but less brilliant works. Then again, look at Katerberg. He has produced much wonderful work, but "In A Monastery Garden" and other trivialities alone have provided his livelihood. (He's "logically" confessed to this in the correspondence columns of the "Musical Opinion" a few years ago.)

Still, they are sticking it out, and jolly good luck to them.

I don't want to make the last part of this talk an uninteresting list of names of musicians, but there are certain men who are dominantly possessed of genius, whose works deserve continuous hearing. (If any worthy of mention are left out, it is due to my own ignorance. I've turned over several times that my knowledge of music is based solely on what has come my way.) Anyway, here they are:

Modern Composers.

Elgar: Almost entirely self-taught, and possessed of just about the broadest outlook of all British musicians. There is no shape or size in music that he hasn't tackled with complete success. More than any other musician, he has brought honour to England, as much of his output has been put on abroad, especially in Germany. His views are very much his own, and he owes next to nothing to other composers. His general style is very dignified, sweeping and majestic, although intensely human. He is never stolid. Probably his "Pomp and Circumstances" and "Imperial Marches" "Land of hopes and glory," "Salut d'Amour," "Chanson de Matin" and "Chanson de Nuit" are known to most listeners. He is now so young as he was then sounds Irish, but it sounds so rude to say that he is now getting on in years, so is not likely to be writing many more big works. Two of his songs will be sung in next Monday's Studio concert.

German: Intensely British, in spite of his name, has written a great lot of music easily comprehensible and always cheerful. Of course you know his incidental dances to "Nell Gwynne" and "Henry VIII," and also "Glorious Devon" and many other splendid songs. Personally I think he rose to great heights when he collaborated with Rudyard Kipling in "The Jungle Song Book."

Stanford, who died a short while ago, was the greatest musician Ireland has produced. Little of his wonderful range of composition is known to the general public, perhaps because much of his work was academic rather than intentionally appealing. You will find one excellent song of his in his Scottish Students' Song Book called "Tim the Dragoon."

Bantock, a fine rugged, bearded giant of a man who is one of the greatest of musical professors of the day. His music is extraordinarily picturesque, especially when he deals with his beloved Highlands. He deserves far greater popularity than has come his way.

Delius.

Delius, a delicate, tender-minded Englishman who has spent most of his life on the outskirts of Paris. His music, based on entirely original methods, is almost ethereal. His tone-poem "On Hearing the first Cuckoo in Spring" was played on a Columbia record from this studio last Sunday evening. Holst, a man of the most experimental and fertile mind any country has produced during this century. His chief weakness, in my opinion, is his aloofness and complete detachment. There is very little of warmth, as it were, in his "Planets" and "The Hymns to Venus" are works that have almost staggered the world.

Bax, a young man who has struck out in a definite line of his own. Little of his work has yet found its way into the domestic circle. (Continued on next column.)

AN UNWARRANTABLE ASSAULT.

EX-MANAGER OF HEALTH BUREAU ATTACKED.

An attack, as yet unexplained, was made on Mr. Kwok Chun Shing, the former manager of the Health Service Intelligence Bureau on Tuesday when he was on his way home from the Supreme Court where an appeal had been heard against a recent decision acquitting him of charges relative to an alleged forged voucher.

The facts relating to the assault were disclosed yesterday when a rickshaw coolie was charged with the assault.

Inspector Dick said that at about 2 p.m. Mr. Kwok was proceeding home in a chair. When passing Art Street, the defendant picked up a heavy piece of iron with which he attacked Mr. Kwok. The chair was damaged and Mr. Kwok was injured in the arm, necessitating his removal to the hospital.

Questioned by the Magistrate as to his reason for the assault, the defendant said: "The complainant knows all about it. Your Worship can find out for yourself." Subsequently he made some incoherent statement from which it was gathered that he was under the impression that the complainant had done him some harm.

Complaint told the Court that he did not know the defendant and had never met him before. Defendant, in answer to further questions, stated that he only knew Mr. Kwok by sight.

Inspector Dick said that as far as the Police know there was no reason whatever for the assault. "We think it is something deeper," said the officer. "It is a most unwarrantable assault."

Defendant was sentenced to three months' hard labour.

FORGED $100 NOTES CONCEALED IN SOCKS.

DEFENDANT PLEADS GUILTY.

Caught in possession of forged banknotes which were hidden in his socks, a Chinese was charged before Mr. H. R. Butters at Kowloon Magistrate's yesterday with possession of one forged Hong Kong Bank $100 note and four forged Chartered Bank $100 notes.

Pleading guilty to the charges, the defendant said that he had been asked by a friend in Yau-mat to hand the notes to another person. When he undertook the mission, he was told that the notes were false.

The Magistrate passed sentences of four months' hard labour on the first charge and six months on the second, both sentences to run concurrently.

If any of you heard that delightful little fantasy of Barrie's, "The Truth about the Russian Dances" at the Coliseum about 10 years ago will have heard Bax in the incidental music.

Scott has written reams and reams of music which has been generally accepted. My own opinion is that, having struck an unusual, semi-oriental vein, and having got his hand on the public pulse with it, he has been satisfied to say the same thing over and over again in slightly different ways. In other words, as a young man he made a big stride forward in musical research work and has stood still since.

Vaughan Williams, to whom we owe a great deal of gratitude for having unearthed and adorned much of our old folk tunes. These he has used, together with original tunes written in the same idiom in his symphonies, choral works, songs, etc. To many, myself included, he is regarded as the greatest British all-round composer of the day. Typical songs of his are "The Roadside Fire" and "Linden Lea."

Other English Musicians.

There are many others (Parry, Ireland, Holbrooke, Harrison, Bal-four-Gardiner, Grainger, Howells, Goossens, York Bowen, Rowley, Farjeon, Phillips, Graham Peck and lots more) who should be mentioned, but more than enough has been said to prove to you that there really are some Englishmen who are composers, and in whose works much treasure-hunting may be done. If I may be allowed just a little personal bias to creep in, let me call your attention to one of the greatest song-writers the world has yet produced, Roger Quilter. His genius is difficult to describe. If you could put your hands on any of his songs, try them over a few dozen times and see if they don't grow on you. Two will be sung on Monday in the same studio concert.

In concluding this series, let me

SALESMAN'S RECEIPTS IRREGULAR.

NOT VALID DISCHARGE OF FIRM'S DEBT.

A written judgment was delivered by Mr. Justice Jackson at the Summary Court yesterday when the decision was in favour of the plaintiffs on the ground that the receipts for payments produced by the defendants were irregular, inasmuch as they were neither chopped by plaintiff firm nor signed by an authorised person.

The plaintiff was Lee Yu Cheung, trading under the name of Lee Yu Koo, 24, Des Voeux Road Central, who claimed from the Wan Kau firm, 480, Shanghai Street, Yau-mat, the sum of $976.40 in respect of galvanised wire and netting sold and delivered.

Mr. Horace Lo was for plaintiff and Mr. F.C.E. Randall for the defendants. In the course of his judgment, his Lordship said that the evidence showed there had been considerable business between the parties, and at the end of the last Chinese year they settled their accounts with each other as they thought in the usual way. On taking stock the plaintiff found there was a shortage and later discovered that their salesman, So Sung, had sent certain goods to the defendant, which had not been entered in the books. They found a delivery order for 50 rolls of wire and an acknowledgment for 150 bundles of wire consigned to Canton.

No Chop On Receipts.

The plaintiff sent a bill for 50 rolls of galvanised wire netting and 48 bundles of wire (102 had been purchased elsewhere) to the defendants, whose manager called and stated that they had paid So Sung for the goods and produced receipts signed by him. The plaintiffs explained that they did not bear the chop of the plaintiff firm, and they were not signed by any of the persons authorised to sign receipts on behalf of the plaintiffs.

His Lordship continued that there was little doubt that the defendants were doing business with the plaintiff firm all through and not with So Sung personally, and that in accepting So Sung's irregular receipts they were not obtaining a proper discharge from the plaintiff firm. No evidence was given as to why explanation the salesman So Sung had to offer for these transactions in the plaintiffs' books. He was dismissed at the end of the first month of this year so was still in their employ when the omission was discovered and he is not now in the Colony. Judgment was given for the plaintiff firm for the claim and costs.

KOWLOON FLAT BURGLED. MAN CONVICTED ON HIS OWN STATEMENT.

Appearing before Mr. H. R. Butters at Kowloon Magistrate's yesterday, two Chinese were charged with stealing $113 worth of property from a married woman living at 3, Tong Mei Road, Kowloon, the offence taking place on September 21.

When charged at the Police Station each defendant made a statement and it was on this evidence that the first defendant was found guilty and sentenced to six months' gaol, and the second defendant discharged.

The statement of the first defendant reads: "I went out with two men to steal, and one of them gave me a purse and I handed it over to the other man, who later gave it back to me with no money in it."

The second defendant stated: "I was asleep there and I saw them go in to steal. I waited there until they stole something and came out. Then I ran away."

SMART ARREST BY INDIANS.

COMMUNIST ORATOR SENT TO PRISON.

A Communist, who was addressing a crowd of interested listeners at the western entrance of the Tai-koo Sugar Refinery, was arrested yesterday by an Indian constable. The man was tried before Mr. E. Lindell yesterday and was sentenced to six weeks' hard labour. Evidence showed that the constable, seeing the defendant address a crowd, approached to ascertain what was going on. He heard someone warn the orator of his approach and saw defendant making off. He at once followed and had the man arrested.

Among the defendant's property recovered a quantity of revolutionary literature.

His Worship described the arrest as a smart piece of work and requested Inspector Stinson, who was prosecuting, to bring the Indian constable's conduct to the notice of the Inspector General of Police.

THOSE GILT-EDGED SECURITIES.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG DAILY PRESS."]

SIR,—I have read Mr. Deacon's letter in your issue of Tuesday, and since "Kufan" is not disposed to take up the challenge, would be glad if you will notify Mr. Deacon that I am prepared to wager £100 that the end 1930 distribution on Banks is NOT less than the end 1929 distribution. Enclosed herewith a cheque on my London bankers for £100 as evidence of good faith, to be held by you as stakeholder.—Enclosing my card, Yours, etc.

TAKE A CHANCE.

Hong Kong, September 24.

BRITISH BUSINESS METHODS.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG DAILY PRESS."]

SIR,—It is all very well for "Siloo" to talk about accommodating one's business clients, but where is one to draw the line?

If a Chinese merchant comes to me and says he will be unable to settle his account on September 30, I may if the circumstances warrant it arrange to help him out of his difficulty.

But if any firm is making a regular practice of "accommodating" its clients by letting them break their contracts with impunity, they are welcome to all the business they get that way. I for one do not want it, and within twelve months they will be sorry they ever took it.

What is the use of drawing up a contract if both parties do not regard themselves as being bound by it?

Business as I understand the term would be impossible if conducted on such erratic and irresponsible lines. By all means let us haggle over prices and terms until the deal is concluded, but from that time on there can be no more haggling, otherwise our contracts are mere worthless pieces of paper.—Yours, etc.

SQUARE DEAL.

Hong Kong, September 24.

MR. KOOP AND HIS CRITICS.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG DAILY PRESS."]

SIR,—The expression "The Leaders of the Christian Church" was used in good faith and without offence. I have, I hope, too many friends among Free Church ministers and too great an admiration for what is best in the Roman Church to be guilty of deliberately giving offence to any section of the Christian community. Surely an Anglican minister speaking in an Anglican cathedral to an Anglican congregation (and that fact was made plain in your newspaper) may use an expression like that without being "misunderstood." I do not think "Catholicism" (he would be a braver man if he would give his real name) would hesitate to speak of the Pope as the supreme visible head of the Church on earth—a far greater assumption than the one he tries to accuse me of making. The other point raised is whether Bolshevism may be called a religion. There is no doubt that it professes to be a substitute for the Christian religion, and therein lies its most subtle danger. In fact the leading religious and philosophical quarterly, the Hibbert Journal, recently published an article on this very subject. My own belief is that Bolshevism can never satisfy the deepest needs of human nature, and will ultimately be repudiated by the world.—Yours, etc.

"INVASION" FOR THE STOPPAGE OF CIVIL WAR.
SITUATION CONTINUES TRANQUIL.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

Manchurian Patrols Traverse Tientsin.

TIENSIN, Sept. 24. For the first time since their arrival, the Manchurians are sending patrols through the native quarters to-night as a precautionary measure, as the Shanai gendarmes have been evacuated, while the city is hung with posters bearing the name of Yu Hsueh Chung intended to pacify the populace and reiterating that the Manchurian invasion is not of an aggressive nature, and is merely a step for the protection of the public and the stoppage of the civil war.

Tientsin Garrison.

It is learned that part of the Twenty-Third Brigade is remaining here as the garrison, while the remainder is being distributed between here and Peiping.

Arrival of Mayor Wu Teh Chen.

In spite of the announcements in the vernacular Press hitherto, there is no definite news regarding the time of the arrival of Wu Teh Chen, who will act as the Nanking representative here, but Yu Hsueh Chung is expected to-morrow, and preparations are being made for his welcome by various public bodies.

In the meantime, civil affairs continue to be administered smoothly, and the likelihood of any disturbance seems very small.

Nanking Headquarters in Peiping.

PEIPING, Sept. 24.

The headquarters of the Nanking Government, formerly the residence of Dr. Wellington Koo, are now reopening, but as the house is being restored to Dr. Wellington Koo, the headquarters are being removed to a barracks, near the Peiping Medical Union College.

Nanking's Chief Representative.

Fang Peng Jen, the chief representative of the National Government, is expected shortly.

Peiping Garrison Commander.

The Garrison Commander, Chu Hsi Chun, having handed over, is leaving to-night for Nankow.

Yen Hsi Shan has appointed Chu Hsi Chun Commander of Guards on the Peiping-Suiyuan Railway.

Prevention of Student Demonstrations.

The Manchurian authorities have advised the education leaders not to allow student demonstrations at present, as these might lead to disturbances.

Peiping and Tientsin Divide Seventy Thousand Troops.

TIENSIN, Sept. 24.

The Twenty-Seventh Manchurian Brigade and the major part of the Sixth followed the Fifth to Peiping to-day, while the Twenty-Third Brigade is now in process of arrival here.

By to-morrow morning the whole Expeditionary Force inside the Wall will have occupied Peiping and Tientsin, and it is estimated that some 70,000 troops are divided between the two cities.

CITY OF OSAKA ON SCOTTISH REEF.

BRITISH WARSHIP TO THE RESCUE.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUOY, Sept. 23.

Early this morning, in a dense fog, the 6,000-ton liner City of Osaka, struck a submerged reef about 13 miles north of Aberdeen, one of the most treacherous parts of the Scottish coast.

The vessel was bound for New York from Newcastle.

Wireless messages brought a prompt response from the doctored ship, which was engaged in a struggle with the 5th Flotilla of the Atlantic Fleet, and which raced to the assistance of the disabled vessel.

Lifeboats were soon in attendance, but as the City of Osaka was firmly wedged on the rock, her bow well down in the water and with rocks all round, it was unsafe for the lifeboats to attempt the rescue of the crew.

Meanwhile, a distress message had brought the Life Saving Corps to the spot from a cliff 300 feet high. By means of the breeches buoy, about 60 sailors and Japanese members of the crew were brought ashore.

The Captain and officers, with the white members of the crew, remained on board to conduct pumping operations.

Throughout the rescue work, complete calm prevailed among the crew.

The latest wireless message from the wrecked vessel states that the weather is clearing and the sea moderating.

This City of Osaka is a British steamer of 6,014 tons, built in 1923 from the West shipyard of W. Gray & Co., Ltd., Sunderland, to the order of the Elder, Smith, & Co., Ltd., Glasgow.

She was formerly the Coleridge, and as such, later as the City of Osaka, she paid many visits to Hong Kong. She was lost here in 1928. Her dimensions are: Length, 423 feet; breadth, 37.4 feet; depth, 30.8 feet.

EXTRALITY CONFERENCES.

WASHINGTON REPORT GROUNDLESS.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

NANKING, Sept. 24.

Interviewed by Reuter concerning the report from Washington regarding the trilateral Extrality Conference between China, Great Britain and the United States, the Foreign Minister, Dr. C. T. Wang, declared that the report was groundless, adding that the Sino-British discussions in that regard were being conducted by Dr. C. T. Wang and Sir Miles Lampson, while those between China and the United States will be resumed between the State Department at Washington and the Chinese Minister, Dr. C. C. Wu, when the latter returns from Geneva.

British Counter-Proposals Speculations.

Dr. Wang characterized the recent speculations regarding the terms of the British reply to China's extrality proposals as incorrect, stating that the British counter-proposals are still under consideration by the National Government.

GERMANY'S INTEREST IN TANGANYIKA.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

GENEVA, Sept. 23.

The Sixth Committee of the League has satisfactorily disposed of the work of the Permanent Mandates Commission, after speeches by representatives of Australia, Great Britain, New Zealand and South Africa, dwelling on the difficulties of the administration of their mandates.

Lord Buxton, for Great Britain, said that no decision should be taken as regards the scheme to form an administrative union of Tanganyika, Uganda and Kenya without consulting the Mandates Commission.

Herr Koch-Weser (Germany) reminded the Commission that the Tanganyika mandate should be considered as an independent unit.

The French and Italian representatives offered their congratulations on the improvement in Palestine.

JUTE PRODUCTION IN BENGAL.

RESTRICTED PRODUCTION FAVOURED.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

CHITTAGONG, Sept. 24.

A meeting of the Indian Merchants' Association passed a resolution urging, in view of the present economic condition of the country and the abnormally low price of jute, the Bengal Government to enact legislation immediately to prevent jute cultivation next season before the balance of the stock passes from the hands of the growers.

The Association considers that the stock of jute carried over from last year with the produce of the present season is sufficient to meet the requirements of the trade this year and the next, and that this restriction will automatically improve the economic condition of the country and save the population from ruin and starvation.

LEIPZIG HIGH TREASON TRIAL.

NO DANGER OF A "PUTSCH" ANYWHERE IN GERMANY.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LEIPZIG, Sept. 23.

Schellinger and Ludin, in reply to questions in the course of their trial on the charge of high treason, said that the young officers did not wish to start a rebellion, but felt obliged to impress their superiors with the fact that the youth of the army were dissatisfied with the things done by the Government under pressure of the Treaty of Versailles.

DRUG TRAFFIC DISCUSSION BY LEAGUE.

CHINESE REASON FOR NOT SIGNING CONVENTION.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

GENEVA, Sept. 23.

Before the League Committee discussing the drug traffic, the Indian delegate stated that the cultivation of the poppy and the consumption of opium in India had decreased considerably.

He urged that measures should be adopted in the manufacturing countries against the illicit traffic in drugs, and expressed concern over the development of manufacture in countries not belonging to the League of Nations.

Mr. Chao Chai Wu said that China had not ratified the Geneva Convention because she regarded it in some respects as being retrograde. He proposed that all States be asked to investigate the problem in their own territories.

Mr. Walker intends to have the thought of a conference of sympathy with Sir Thomas Lipton which he has received bound in book form and presented to Sir Thomas Lipton along with the loving cup.

INDIAN POLITICAL SITUATION.

NO DOUBT REGARDING THE ULTIMATE ISSUE.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Sept. 23.

The statement of the Government of India up to September 20 is one of the most interesting yet issued regarding the political situation.

It says that, broadly speaking, the public is in no doubt as to the ultimate issue. The impression produced by unscrupulous Congress propaganda is rapidly evaporating, and the widespread loss caused to Indians by the boycott of foreign goods is gradually alienating from Congress the sympathy of numerous middle-Hindus on whom Congress depended for support and prospects.

Public Opinion Disrupting Civil Disobedience.

Public opinion will play an effective part in disrupting civil disobedience. The report concludes that while it is not to be assumed that Congress has exhausted its capacity for mischief, there is good reason to take a sanguine view of the future, but no justification to relax restorative efforts.

Interference With Rights of Individuals.

The appreciation says that Congress activities in connection with the legislative elections provide another instance of interference with the rights of individuals, and the conviction is strengthening among the public that whatever its precepts, the practice of Congress represents an arrogant attempt to interfere with both the private liberties and the interests of all parties and classes who do not share its views.

Discrediting Legislative Methods.

It mentions also that Congress is putting up as candidates for the legislative bodies persons of the lowest caste in order to discredit the legislature's methods. The domination, which is an outstanding feature of the Congress programme, has aroused apprehensions and the minority communities have stiffened their opposition.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

Failure to Capture Bombay Labour.

Ruooy, Sept. 23. The Government of India's appreciation of the situation up to September 20 states:— "There is little to report from the North-west Frontier Province, and so far as specific incidents are concerned the week in internal India had been comparatively quiet."

A recent report received from the Bombay Government relating to the efforts made by Congress during the latter half of last month to capture labour in Bombay City, shows that these met with very moderate success, and that there are diverse influences at work likely to prevent anything in the nature of a serious labour movement in favour of Congress.

The number of unemployed mill hands continues to increase, although perhaps not so rapidly as was apprehended. Elsewhere, the labour situation is generally satisfactory.

Congress Plans Fail.

In spite of the various devices adopted by Congress, it may be assumed that from the absence of Congress representations the constitution of the various legislative bodies will be little affected.

The civil disobedience movement has conspicuously failed to repair the working of the Legislative Councils or the administration by

SEASON'S FIRST HAT-TRICK BY "QUEEN'S" BOY.

R.A.S.C. TROUNCED BY QUEEN'S COLLEGE.

A feature of this match at Sookunpoo yesterday was a fine bowling performance by Tsui Yau Fai, of the College team. He took eight wickets for eighteen runs, and incidentally performed the hat-trick—the first of the season. Queen's College won by 80 runs.

The "Queen's" men batted first and, thanks to 37 from Griffith and 22 from Suffad, totalled 125 runs. "Mr. Extras" also contributed a useful 20. For the Service Corps, Simpson was the most successful bowler, his figures being 4 for 38.

When the soldiers went in to bat they found Tsui Yau Fai, a promising young bowler, in splendid form, and they were skittled out for a paltry 45. Tsui's analysis was 8-2-13-8.

The scores were:—

ABORIGINALS OF AUSTRALIA.

ARNHEIM LAND TO BE A RESERVE.

Decisions arrived at by the Commonwealth Government with regard to the recommendations made by Mr. J. W. Bleakley, Chief Protector of Aborigines for the State of Queensland, relating to the aboriginals and half-castes of North Australia and Central Australia, have been made available by the Minister for Home Affairs, Mr. Arthur Blakeley.

Mr. Blakeley states that these decisions had been arrived at only after the most careful consideration of Mr. Bleakley's observations, the recommendations made by the Melbourne Conference of Missionary Societies and bodies interested in the welfare of aboriginals, and reports by officers of the Administrations of North Australia and Central Australia and of the Department of Home Affairs.

The Government has approved of Mr. Bleakley's recommendation that a definite scale of wages should be fixed for permanent workers. The rates of wages for the various classes of employment will be definitely set out in the regulations. The Government has not approved, however, of the recommendation that wages should be paid in goods.

It has been the practice for a number of years to pay wages to aboriginals and half-castes in cash. It is feared that if at this stage they are deprived of the use of money they will have recourse to illegal methods of obtaining it. One of such methods would probably be the prostitution of their womenfolk.

Provision will be made for better living conditions for permanent employees as suggested by Mr. Bleakley. The Government proposes to provide by regulation that employers shall provide accommodation, which must be approved by the Chief Protector after report by the local Protector.

With regard to the suppression of prostitution and moral abuse, the existing law already contains very strict provisions. Mr. Bleakley has made suggestions for extending the existing law, particularly to cover soliciting and procuring. The Government proposes to adopt these suggestions. The Government feels, however, that it cannot compel employers to co-operate in enforcing the moral law or to employ married employees as suggested by Mr. Bleakley. It will endeavour, however, to enlist their co-operation, and will take the steps to tighten up the administration of the law.

In the present state of the finances, no action can be taken to give effect to Mr. Bleakley's recommendation that an aboriginal hospital should be erected near the general hospital. The matter will be considered when funds are available. The Government concurs with the suggestion that aboriginals should be trained and used as assistants to the nursing staff. This, to a certain extent, is done at present, but the system can be given more general application when an aboriginal hospital is established.

The Government has approved the whole of Arnheim Land shall be reserved for aboriginals. Approval has not been given to the recommendation that the aboriginal reserve in the south-west corner of Central Australia should be extended. This reserve, together with the contiguous reserve in Western Australia and South Australia, comprises an area of approximately 22,000 square miles, and reports indicate that the country is very sparsely populated with aboriginals. There does not appear to be any necessity to extend the reserve in Central Australia. The Commonwealth Government is in communication with the Governments of Western Australia and South Australia in connection with the suggestion that the whole of the area comprised in those three reserves should be placed under the control of the Commonwealth.

GERMAN FRIENDSHIP FOR CHINA.

CONVENTION AT DRESDEN.

Dresden, Sept. 19.—The Sino-German Society of Dresden and Leipzig met here to-day for its annual convention which will last three days. Its president, Baron von Söckendorff, welcomed the guests and representatives of the federal and the state governments. Mr. Tan Pau Tuan, Secretary of the Chinese Legation at Berlin, then spoke on behalf of the Minister, General Chiang Tao Pin, who is at present in Geneva, expressing China's gratification at the close bonds with Germany as demonstrated anew by this impressive gathering.

As representative of the German Foreign Minister, Mr. Curtius, who is also in Geneva, Councillor Dr. Michelsen then made a lengthy address which culminated in the statement that Germany was fully aware of China's immense importance and of her leaving nothing undone to conserve and strengthen her vitality.

It is the Reich's task to co-operate with China in her reconstruction and not to stand by and wait until the world's greatest nation has achieved a complete synthesis of old and new culture.

NO COPYRIGHT FOR ANDREE'S DIARY.

LEGAL EXPERTS' OPINION.

Stockholm, Sept. 18. That there is no copyright in the documents recovered from the ill-fated Andree North Pole expedition was declared to-day by legal experts here who were asked by the government to give their opinion in view of the fact that quite a number of newspapers and publishers here and abroad are competing for the copyright, some of them having already paid considerable sums to secure the right on the documents. The experts point out that as the explorers died over 30 years ago, the period of copyright protection has already passed.

REYNOLDS' PICTURES FOR DUBLIN.

BEQUEST VOID IF FREE STATE TURNS REPUBLIC.

Bequests of portraits by Sir Joshua Reynolds, to the National Gallery of Ireland, Dublin, and to the National Gallery in London are contained in the will of Miss Emily Drummond, of 18, Hyde Park Gardens, and Fredley, near Dorking, Surrey, who died on May 25 this year.

In the case of the bequests to the Dublin Gallery—a portrait of Edmund Burke by Reynolds and a portrait of Miss Drummond—a provision is inserted in the will that should the Irish Free State cease to function as part of the British Empire the pictures should revert to the Scottish National Portrait Gallery. The gifts to the National Gallery in London are the two portraits by Sir Joshua Reynolds of himself and Dr. Johnson.

Miss Emily Drummond was the younger daughter of the late Mr. Thomas Drummond, Under Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland from 1885 to 1890. Mr. Drummond's life was written by Mr. H. Barry O'Brien, the distinguished Irish historian and later biographer of Charles Stewart Parnell and Lord Russell of Killowen. There is an interesting touch of romance connected with the Drummond family and the late Mr. Barry O'Brien. When Mr. Barry O'Brien wrote the life of Mr. Drummond he was not personally acquainted with the Drummond family, but had formed a great admiration for Thomas Drummond owing to the latter's sympathy with the aspirations of the Irish people.

At the end of his preface to the book Mr. Barry O'Brien wrote: "The work has been a labour of love. It is the record of a noble life." Thomas Drummond, though a Scotman, was at his own request buried in Dublin, and upon his tomb is engraved these words: "Bury me in Ireland, the land of my adoption. I have loved her well and served her faithfully."

When the book was published the widow and daughters of Thomas Drummond were anxious to know the young Irish barrister who had written this book on Thomas Drummond's life and work. From that time a great friendship sprang up between Mr. Barry O'Brien and his family and Thomas Drummond's widow and his two daughters, which was continued until the death of Mr. Barry O'Brien. The family was continued after his death, and Mr. Maurice Barry O'Brien, who has been appointed one of her executors and trustees by the late Miss Drummond, is the son of the distinguished historian and biographer.

NEW U.S. EXTRALITY PROPOSALS.

METHOD OF GRADUAL RELINQUISHMENT.

(UNITED PRESS.)

Washington, Sept. 18.—The announcement was made to-day by the State Department that draft proposals for the abolition of extraterritoriality will be ready for presentation to the Chinese Government in October.

In spite of the absence of Dr. Wu Chao Chu, Chinese Minister to Washington, notification has been made by the State Department to the Chinese Legation.

The proposals are understood to be similar to, but not identical with, the British proposals presented to the Chinese on September 11. It was learned that the aim of the proposals is to provide a method for the gradual relinquishment of extraterritoriality by the United States.

The Chinese have also been requested to submit their own proposals in this connection.

ARRESTS IN POLAND PROTEST.

ALLEGED BRUTAL TREATMENT OF OPPOSITION.

Warsaw, Sept. 17.—Members of the opposition parties to-day lodged a formal protest with the Minister of the Interior against the alleged brutal treatment meted out to the recently arrested leaders of the opposition who are interned in the fortress of Brost-Litovsk where, reports say, they are kept in a tumbledown tower which was infested with bugs and other vermin.

The Minister of the Interior denied these allegations but admitted that one of Marshal Pilsudski's close friends, Major Raszynski, has been appointed commander of Brost-Litovsk. It may be recalled that Raszynski played a prominent role when last year a score of fully armed officers invaded the Sejm and caused its session to be suspended and that he has since been known as a rabid anti-parliamentarian.

RIOTING IN DONETZ.

RUSSIAN MINERS DEMAND BETTER TREATMENT.

Moscow, Sept. 18.—Rioting has broken out amongst the miners in the Donetz region on account of the preferential treatment accorded to the 500 Germans who were housed in special barracks and received better food and pay than the local workers.

The Germans who are all Communists were recently imported from Germany in order to introduce improved methods and generally to accelerate the output of coal in this important mining district. On their arrival last month they were enthusiastically welcomed as revolutionary comrades but the enthusiasm evaporated quickly with their resentment growing correspondingly until finally they stormed and demolished the barracks of the Germans, twenty-one being injured in the ensuing fracas.

Thereafter, the German workers were placed under the protection of a detachment of the Red Army stationed at the pits. It is still uncertain whether under these conditions the German miners will be able or willing to continue their work.

CHESS KING AS COMPLAINANT.

EXTORTION OF $750 ALLEGED.

Alleging that a Formosan and four Chinese extorted $750 from him, Mr. Zia Yeh Sung, commonly known as China's Chess King, was complainant in the Shanghai Special District Court last week when four men were arraigned. The Formosan is being charged before the Japanese Consular Court.

Complainant said that, a month ago, he was invited to the Sun Sun Hotel to play a game of chess against the Formosan, and as soon as he entered the room, three men, one of whom was armed with a pistol, extorted $750 from him. He did not make a report of the incident to the police until the same gang tried to trap his friend, Capt. Wu Chien, commanding officer of the gunboat Weihai, in a similar manner.

As a result of his complaint, the police raided a room in the Oriental Hotel and arrested five men, the four accused and the Formosan. In addition, they seized $25,000 in banknotes purporting to be issued by the Bank of Hoi. The latter were intended as sacrifices to the dead.

Accused all denied the charge, but one stated that complainant had played against the Formosan and had lost $750.

A remand was ordered.

EASTERN NEWS IN BRIEF

PARS FROM EVERYWHERE.

China—tea valued at over $1,000,000 was shipped from Shanghai to Russia last week, reports the Sinwanpao.

Mr. Wei Tso Ching, Chinese Chargé d'Affaires in Peru, has been instructed by the Waichiao to recognize the new government of that country.

The Chinese Press says that the British Government has agreed to the establishment of a Chinese Consulate in the Fiji Islands, and that the National Government in due course will appoint a Consul General to that place.

The Chinese Government is reported to have ordered its Minister in London to lodge a protest with His Majesty's Government against the alleged anti-Chinese immigration movement in the Union of South Africa.

According to a Chinese Press report, M. Wilden, French Minister to China, will come to the south on October 18 to present his credentials to General Chiang Kai Shek and to negotiate with the Chinese Government regarding outstanding Sino-French questions.

An order has been issued by the Commissioner of Public Safety for Greater Shanghai, forbidding White Russians to solicit money from Chinese territory and saying that those ignoring the order will be arrested and sent to the local Russian charitable organizations to be dealt with.

As a result of the negotiations, between representative of China and the Nicaraguan Government, the latter has removed its restrictions on the emigration of Chinese to that country and agreed to the treatment of Chinese on an equal basis with foreigners of other nationalities.

With regard to the rendition of the Mixed Court in the French Concession, Shanghai, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs is understood to have dispatched another telegram to the French Minister, M. Auguste Wilden, urging him to determine definite measures, as early as possible as to the future of the Mixed Court when he arrives at the Capital next month.

According to the latest census report compiled by the Municipal Bureau of Public Safety, the total population of Greater Shanghai for July including the International Settlement and French Concession, is 2,954,485, of whom 2,991,730 are Chinese and 62,740 foreigners. As compared with the statistics for last June an increase of 8,631 is recorded.

Judge Linbarger, the American legal adviser to the Chinese Government, is reported to have submitted a proposal to Nanking officials, suggesting the appointment of a special committee to study the question of the abolition of unequal treaties and to utilize foreign capital for the development of domestic industries and the solution of the unemployment problem. Judge Linbarger intends returning to America shortly.

At the request of Shanghai flour mill owners, the National Government has lifted its ban on the exportation of flour to Tientsin and other northern ports so as to prevent the industry from being encroached upon by foreign merchants. However, says the journal in question, the Government complied with the merchants' request only after the latter had promised to purchase 1,000,000 bonds to the value of $1,000,000.

Far Eastern friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Burtwell (of Dowdell's) will receive the news of the sudden death of their older son, Maurice, with much sympathy for his parents, sister and brother. The lad was 18 or so and with his very cheerful disposition and accomplishments had a bright future before him. He was one of the senior boys of Highgate School where he had been for the past six years and was in his last year there. He was suffering with no apparent illness and passed away in his sleep.

Certain decisions have been reached by Dr. C. T. Wang, the Foreign Minister, and Sir Miles Lampson, the British Minister to China, regarding the uses of the British portion of the returned Boxer indemnity. According to these, the British portion of the Boxer indemnity will be entirely used for the construction of the unfinished Canton-Hankow Railway and a special Chinese fund will be created to be custodians of the money. A purchasing committee, composed of three British and two Chinese members, will be also appointed.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

PROBLEM OF NATIONAL MINORITIES.

DEBATE IN ECONOMIC COMMITTEE.

Geneva, Sept. 19.—The sixth or political committee of the League of Nations Assembly to-day began its debate on the German resolution demanding that both the Council as well as the Assembly review at certain definite intervals the problem of national minorities. The resolution was introduced by the German representative Koch, a leading Democratic member of the Reichstag, who dwelt upon the importance of the problem of national minorities as a source of constant friction and charged the League with having neglected its obligations towards the minorities. He therefore suggested a thorough-going revision of the present procedure.

Amongst the speakers in the debate were the Austrian, Hungarian, Czechoslovakian and Japanese delegates and finally the French Foreign Minister, M. Briand, whose appearance in the committee sufficiently illustrates the importance of the issue, although the French Foreign Minister attempted to minimise it by insisting that at present there was no reason to go too deeply into this problem, as the League's Council was successfully and adequately discharging all its obligations imposed upon it in that respect. The committee thereafter adjourned until tomorrow, Saturday.

Heated Debates.

Opinions clashed violently during to-day's debate of the Assembly's economic committee on the resolution submitted by the Netherlands and the Scandinavian states that the League take steps to bring about an "internationally binding interpretation of the 'most-favoured nation clause' in commercial treaties, which at present is extremely vague and therefore detrimental to international commerce. At least this was the contention brought forward by the Danish Foreign Minister, M. Munch, in his address opening the debate which had finally to be adjourned without the remotest prospect of an agreement being eventually reached.

Indian Proposal.

The Indian delegate proposed general economic problems be submitted to the Finance Committee who should inaugurate an inquiry into the reasons for the economic crisis from which the world is suffering at present.

M. Munch's proposal that the "most favoured nation" clause should be officially and bindingly interpreted was strongly supported by Herr Schuler, Austrian delegate, and M. Veinertstein, Swedish representative.

It is reported that M. Guani, delegate from Uruguay, has presented to Sir Eric Drummond an invitation on behalf of his government for him to represent the League of Nations at the celebrations which will be held in Montevideo on the occasion of the centenary of the independence of Uruguay. Most of the state members of the League will send delegations to the celebrations.

The National Government proposes to prepare a new map of China by taking photos from the air, says the Sinwanpao. Two officials, one of whom is a foreign photographer, have arrived in Shanghai from Nanking to borrow an aeroplane from the Shanghai Aeronautical Factory for this purpose.

According to a Chinese Press report, the Canadian Far East Trade Mission, is due to arrive in Shanghai on November 14 and its members will be formally welcomed at a reception party to be given by the officials of the Greater Shanghai Bureau of Social Affairs, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Ministry of Industry, Commerce and Labour.

Chinese workers, who have been suffering from unemployment in the neighbourhood of Tokyo, have been sent home through the kind offices of the Chinese Legation and various Japanese public organizations. The group who left numbered 37, one unemployed will be transported back home in future. It is said that there are more than 2,000 such destitute Chinese residing in the Tokyo district.

AWFUL PAIN NIGHT AND DAY

Rash Broke Out on Hands and Arms. Cuticura Healed.

"My hands and arms itched and a rash broke out on them. The itching and burning were terrible. I suffered awful pain night and day and could not sleep on account of it. When I put my hands in water I just about went mad. I suffered with it about a year and six months. I tried all sorts of remedies without success. A friend advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment as I sent for a free sample. After the second application I found considerable relief. I purchased more and now I am healed." (Signed) Mrs. Margaret Brown, Melmerby, Middleham, York, Eng., June 5, 1929. Rely on Cuticura Soap and Ointment to keep your skin clear. Sample each Soap, Ointment and Tablet free upon receipt of 3 stamps. Price & Company, Ltd., P. O. Box 580, Shanghai. Sold Throughout the World.

THE IBUKI MARU.

NO NEWS OF MISSING MEN.

In spite of the repeated efforts of Messrs. Horai & Co., agents for Ibuki Maru which ran into a reef off Hainan recently, to obtain information in regard to the eleven members of the crew who are still missing, no news regarding their fate has come to hand. It is now about a fortnight since the mishap so that little hope is entertained for their safety.

It will be remembered that the master, chief officer, engineer, and the wireless operator, were rescued and brought back to the Colony over a week ago, at a few days later, three men were reported to have reached Hoihow. No sign of the other men had been seen.

The Karumo Maru, another of the Company's fleet of trawlers, left Hong Kong about a week ago with instructions to cruise around the vicinity of the missing men might be picked up but so far no report has come from them.

GERMAN AVIATOR AT HAMBURG.

ATLANTIC FLYER GIVEN OVATION.

Hamburg, Sept. 19.—Huge crowds to-day gave an enthusiastic welcome to the German pilot von Gronau on his return from New York City. He had flown last month in a Dornier-Wal flyingboat via Iceland, Greenland, and Nova Scotia. The liner on which von Gronau returned was on the last stage of the trip escorted by a score of aeroplanes sent out by various aviation societies.

In a Press-interview which was replayed over all radio-stations, von Gronau declared that the northern Atlantic route was most favourable for regular trans-Atlantic services, as with modern instruments fog were no longer a serious obstacle. However, he emphasized that the route would be possible. He will fly his seaplane from here to Berlin where an official welcome is being prepared for him.
